

Without You

Sunstorm

When you leave and sail away,
How am I supposed to stay,
On my feet and carry on,
I feel like drowning.

Memories of you and me,
Conquering my lonely mind,
And I feel lost and lone,
Don't know where I'm going.

Will this blood red rose,
Guide me straight into your arms now?
Will you take me home?
I can't take this no more.

Gone away,
Letting me just bleed out,
Gone away,
You'll never come my way.

Like a flower withering,
A dried-out sight,
I'll never be the same again,
Without you by my side,
Nothing's what it used to be,
Without you not alive.

World is changing every day,
Ever since you ran away,
I've lost my home,
It feels so cold in this silence.

Broken promises,
My head's a ticking time bomb,
Waiting to explode,
Can't this nightmare come to rest?

Gone away,
Letting me just bleed out,
Gone away,
You'll never come my way.

Like a flower withering,
A dried-out sight,
I'll never be the same again,
Without you by my side,
Nothing's what it used to be,
Without you not alive.

You have left and sailed away,
I can barely stay awake,
Praying on my knees and hope,
To feel your presence.

Memories of you and me,
Everything that we could be,
Are miles away and out of reach,

Without you there's no hom
