Pulled Muscle

Superchunk

When you see my silhouette on the peak of the roof Discouraged and aloof, straining my eyes for the Northern Light s

Please don't deny we have some long, cold nights ahead Pulling down stars out of our doors and from our heads

There is no proof that this is real So I'm out back inventing the wheel Your love at any price I'd steal

I wanna cut your Christmas tree Drag it through the snow Leave it at your knees

The heart's a muscle
I pull it constantly
Pull my muscles
Pull my muscles, please

And now I've built everything you own You know I live to break my bones But you've run out of little tasks So take this planet off your back And let's call this star home

Cover my ears before they freeze I'm dragging through the snow Falling at your knees

The heart's a muscle
I pull it constantly
Pull my muscles
Pull my muscles, please
