

Fast Cure

Superman Is Dead

While you're living on high then you're living on earth again
This time your eyes are coming to find your souls that left behind
Walking in the whispers was no more bright in every side
Start your dream more early before the night is coming down
It's time to realize

You wake up someday
Found no one you really care
Raising up your courage to this journey to survive
Don't give up the fight
Standing up on every start
Do believe in the past will never giving back your luck

You tell the right from wrong they say
You tell the right from wrong they say
You tell the right from wrong they say

When you look up the sky to get a smile from every stars
You need to find the way to fight yourself from falling down
What to say is future, to break down the loser
Strengthen your reality, drive away adversity

Do what's right, run and fight
Fight the fear, bring it down, and rise again!

You wake up someday
Found no one you really care
Raising up your courage to this journey to survive
Don't give up the fight
Standing up on every start
Do believe in the past will never giving back your luck

You tell the right from wrong they say
You tell the right from wrong they say
You tell the right from wrong they say

You wake up someday
Found no one you really care
Raising up your courage to this journey to survive
Don't give up the fight
Standing up on every start
Do believe in the past will never giving back your luck

You tell the right from wrong they say
You tell the right from wrong they say
You tell the right from wrong they say