Swan Lee

When you are old and tired, and sickness breeds in you, I hope you forget me
Then, forget what I've done to you
You were my only friend
Then I was half alive
That's more than I could ever ask, but I took your trust and ru ined you
If you were here with me in this room, I'd stand right in front of you, and

Beg you to forget, I was ever inside you You were the only thing I ever owned, worth anything at all, an d still I Took your heart and held it and turned it to stone
When you are sick and tired, and you're confined to your memory
, throw me
Out of your mind:
I've been turned to stone
