The day I was born, your shadow fell across my mother's breast. When I opened my eyes, you coloured my mind.

Every move I make, is by your desire.

Every move I make, is by your hand only.

Now I'm still a child, but I'm closer to death.

Cover me in roses, gently touch me while I sleep.

When I dream I'll dream of drowning in a pool of scented blood.

Now I'm still a child, but I'm closer to death.

You said "take this it's yours" so I've kept it locked away.

Now you're curled up beneath tme in a pool of your own blood.

Now I'm still a child, but I'm closer to death.