

Satan's Chainsaw

Tad

When she woke up she heard a chainsaw
Heard it through the woods and the fields
It drained her mind, it changed her mind
No one knows just how she feels

Well she was walking out towards the chainsaw
That roaring noise filled her head
Like a gas powered beast of prey
It chewed her up with all it said

Well she remembered a love that's strange and mean

But she kept on out towards that noise
Walking out towards that machine
It spoke of teeth and things that destroy
A love that's strange and mean

She remembered a love that's strange and mean

She walked on out to the smell that made that noise
She walked on out her head was reeling
She walked on out she had no choice
She walked on out her head was reeling
She ran to the smell of gasoline
Run to the smell of gasoline
