

Last Song

Talia Mar

I've said it all before
But I'll say it again
It's still all in my system
I never got that phone call
So I'll write this with pen
'Cause you owe me explanations
I never let it go
'Cause you never gave me the chance to
I never had the time to talk and be done with you
So I'll say it now

This is the last song I promise you at least for now
This is the last song I'll ever write about you
This is the last one I promise I'm over it now
This is the last song that I'll ever write about you

Put my opinion to the floor
And you left it out there
Don't I deserve a chance to say my side?
Your mind was clouded, over-crowded
You were sour, not about it
You were scared I was right
You are wondering, I'm sure
If these words are for you
If the shoe fits you can wear it too, so

This is the last song I promise you at least for now
This is the last song I'll ever write about you
This is the last one I promise I'm over it now
This is the last song that I'll ever write about you

I don't think it's fair the way you left it with me
You don't think it's fair the way I handle things
Are we even? Are we done now?
'Cause you messaged me last
To be honest, I don't care for you
The longer time has passed
I don't think you understand
When I say I am all the way gone
So keep your 'sorry, I was wrong'
Don't you know this is the last song that I

This is the last song I promise you at least for now
This is the last song I'll ever write about you
This is the last one I promise I'm over it now
This is the last song that I'll ever write about you

This is the last one, I
This is the last song, I
