

And there's so many things
I should probably say to you
I should tell you I loved you and still do
But I make it worse for myself
Because it's easy
Oh, and there's too many things
That I never said to you
And I guess I'll never say to you
I make it worse for myself
Because it's easy

Don't you know I tried to blame you?
For all that you did when you sat down and smiled
I know I gave you pain enough for you to cry
Don't you know I tried to hurt you?
'Cause all that you did was sit on that side
While I was burning, breaking under your spotlight
Don't you know I

I don't wanna talk to you
Because I just wanna talk to you
And I know that would hurt
They say it's so easy
Oh, to say the things that you don't mean
You were right, babe
The truth hurts
But how come it only hurts me?

And don't you know I tried to blame you?
All that you did was sit down and smile
I know I gave you pain enough for you to cry
Don't you know I tried to hurt you so bad?
All that you did was sit on that side
While I was burning, breaking under your spotlight

Running away, there was pain
In losing everything that we had made
If you had shed a tear I might've stayed
But all that you did was spit out an okay
Letting it fade is as hard as it sounds
How is it now you've come up without
Not even a bit of regret in your eyes
Oh, when I

I, oh I tried to blame you
All that you did was sit down and smile
I know I gave you pain enough for you to at least cry
Don't you know I only tried to hurt you?
'Cause all that you did was sit on the side
While I was burning, breaking under your spotlight

And all that you did was sit there and lie
When I was wondering if you would be alright
And all that you did was walk out the night
I needed you the most of all in all of my life
Don't you know I