

Waking Up

Tall Heights

Youth is a blanket, tattered and torn
Trailing behind me on the floor
There was never gonna be a good time to tell us
That everything we hold dear has to end

Now we're waking up
Isn't it lonely when you feel what you could have had?
Now we're waking up
Waking up lonely, knowing everything has changed
Knowing everything has changed

Innocent mind, what's in the paper?
Never you mind, how could you save her?
There was something so cold everyone knows here in the canyon
But we were told to let it all go with reckless abandon

Now we're waking up
Isn't it lonely when you feel what you could have had?
Now we're waking up
Waking up lonely, knowing everything has changed
Now we're breaking up
Isn't it lonely when you feel the ground shift?
And now we're waking up
Waking up lonely, knowing everything has changed
Knowing everything has changed

Now we're waking up
Waking up lonely when you feel what you could have had
Now we're waking up
Isn't it lonely, knowing everything has changed
And now we're breaking up
Isn't it lonely when you feel what you couldn't find?
Now we're waking up
Waking up lonely, knowing everything has changed
Knowing everything has changed

Innocent mind, what's in the paper?
(When you feel what you could have had)
Now we're waking up
(Waking up lonely, knowing everything has changed)
Never you mind, how could you save her?
Now we're waking up

Innocent mind, what's in the paper?
(When you feel what you could have had)
Now we're waking up
(Waking up lonely, knowing everything has changed)
Never you mind, how could you save her?
Now we're waking up
