

All Ours

Talos

I know that you waited
In a California garden
Now a subsiding siege
We're all in
The cupboards get taped in
And the canyon calls you over
While we wait on the corners of shoulders
A sea dawns, we leave

Our temples are coming in godless
Hide when it's wild in the snow
I'll leave when the gardens are darkest
I'll heed in the warnings of war
Our memories are foaming in water
I'll leave when the gardens alight
And stay hunted out over your wildlands
Till I'm blinded by the night

I know where you waited
With a California garden at your feet
While I harboured right over your salt lake
Cedars for weeks

Our temples are coming in godless
Hide when it's wild in the snow
I'll leave when the gardens are darkest
I'll heed in the warnings of war
Our memories are foaming in water
I'll leave when the gardens alight
And stay hunted out over your wildlands
Till I'm blinded by the night

Whole eyed war
That keeps gods
Who speak a lie divine
I formed a wild-eyed love that sees a lie divide

Our temples are coming in godless
Hide when it's wild in the snow
I'll leave when the gardens are darkest
I'll heed in the warnings of war
Our memories are foaming in water
I'll leave when the gardens alight
And stay hunted out over your wildlands
Till I'm blinded by the night
