Standing on a land unknown interpreting the same Believing in a chance of hope and see it slowly fade It's breaking far away replacing what I'm made of

Looking for a way to show that I'm searching for a faith Who knows that I'm screaming for a place to go, 'cause I'm drowning in the violent seas of being force fed soci eties

Shallow end of misery

Please take me away 'cause I can't stay looking for a way

To show that I'm okay

Screaming for a place like home

Treading in the fears I own of ending up ashamed While cornered in this life and prone By overbearing waves
That steal what I have saved replacing what I gave up

Away, far away
