

Break Down For Love

Tavares

There ain't nothing much so special
That it should ruin your life
We're just people being people
Trying to survive

There's just one thing that's worth all the trouble
There's just one thing that's worth all the heartache
There's just one place you put your emotion
There's just one thing that should make you cry

Break down for love
Give love all your tears
Break down for love
And the whole world disappears
Outside you're strong
You're so good you're straight up
In someone's arms
(You really should) break down for love, break down for love, break down for love

Intellect is something you must prove
Every hour of the day
Always thinking what's your next move
In the games you play, yeah

But when the night is falling let your mind go
And when your lover's calling let your guard down
You've been relying in the jungle too long
You've kept your heart now give your heart away

Break down for love
Give love all your tears
Break down for love
And the whole world disappears
Outside you're strong
You're so good you're straight up
But In someone's arms yeah
(You really should) break down for love, break down for love, break down for love

But when the night is falling, let your mind go
And when your lover's calling, let your guard down
You've been relying in the jungle too long
You've kept your heart, now give your heart away

Break down for love
Give love all your tears
Break down for love
And the whole world disappears
Outside you're strong
You're so good you're straight up
But In someone's arms, yeah
(You really should) break down for love, break down for love, break down for love
You've got to...

Break down for love

Give love
Break down for love
And the whole world
Outside you're strong
You're so good
In someone's arms
Break down for love
Break down for love
