(Where Do You) Draw the Line

Ted Nugent

I've been accused of jealousy
While you've been runnin' 'round
To think that I trusted you and you let me down

You always liked the spotlight
Now you're the talk of the town
If trouble's what you're lookin' for, well it's what you've fou nd

Where will you be tonight?
It's time that you realized
I'm no fool, so where do you draw the line?

I really gotta know
Where do you draw the line?

So what's it take to please you?
I just keep gettin' burned
If this is how you treat your friends you got a lot to learn

You were never one for promises
You think they're made to break
I've heard of being pushed around but this takes the cake

Where will you be tonight?
It's time that you realized
I'm no fool, so where do you draw the line?
I really wanna know
Where do you draw the line?
Where do you draw the line? - oh ya

I won't question your need to be free
But when you got the answer maybe come and see me
If you need me

Where do you draw the line?
I really wanna know now
Where do you draw the line?
