

Black Is My Heart

Temperance

A bitter kiss goodbye before the end
To all the fools like me, 'cause we're aware

I am my own trouble when I'm deaf and blind
Trapped inside a bubble till the end of time

Cause black is my heart for the pain I can see
As I can't deny how fragile we are, our own misery
I'm falling apart, in need of a brand new start to fix
What I've done, you know... black is my heart

Another day goes by, I feel alive
Though still I wonder for how long I'll fight

I am my own trouble with this state of mind
Trapped inside a bubble made of cold damned crimes

Cause black is my heart for the pain I can see
As I can't deny how fragile we are, our own misery
I'm falling apart, in need of a brand new start to fix
What I've done, you know... black is my heart

Black is my heart

Searching for a reason to justify my faults
I kept running in a circle: no way out if not insane
Searching for a reason to deny the undeniable
Searching for a reason to hide all my mistakes
I kept running in this circle: I drown in regret

Black is my heart but no one can see it
And I can't deny how fragile we are, our own misery

Black is my heart and now I can see
Whatever we've done, how fragile we are, our own
Misery

Black is my heart and now I can see
Whatever we've done, how fragile we are, our own
Misery

I won't fall apart, enlightening my darkened heart
Once and for all, no more... black is my heart
