In the dark
My days felt like a puzzle

I doubted if the answer
Was ever in the pieces I held all day long
Feelings that brushed by
Had been piling inside my heart
Which version of me
Should I embrace first?

Somewhere far away (Like birds flying away)
I don't know where to go (Like me, who's lost the way)
The sunset colors me
That shining moment before the dark

You once lit me up
You once held me close
Even with my eyes closed
The sunset still shines
I am barely hanging on
What kind of comfort do I need?
Before the dark comes
Before the dark comes

Even when I pause, I don't know
Feels like I'm the only one standing still
I ran again, pretending everything's fine
Telling my family only good things
I start to speak with words my mom and dad used to say
Filling my day with "I'm sorry"
Before I knew it
I don't even feel sorry anymore
The version of me I once imagined is gone
And I just follow other people's clocks
Even in the mirror
I can't tell how I feel

Somewhere far away (Like birds flying away)
I don't know where to go (Like me, who's lost the way)
The sunset colors me
That shining moment before the dark

You once lit me up
You once held me close
Even with my eyes closed
The sunset still shines
I am barely hanging on (I am)
What kind of comfort do I need? (Comfort)
Before the dark comes
Before the dark comes

Please hold me
Cry with me
And close your eyes
Shine on me once more
To me, who has lived through today
It's okay to not say a word
Even when the dark comes
Even when the dark comes
