

Chapter and Psalm

Ten

Sail the seven seas of wonder
Burn the ships, we smite and plunder
Trail the seasons out
Masters at arms again

Tidal born, the quest lies reeving
Ride the storms, the crest rise cleaving
Coast to coast we rout
Capture, becalm then end
Chapter and psalm again

We are the last, we're the guardians of time
Born in the past with our future to defined
Heed this compass my love
Here be monsters my love

Dawn cracks the sky as we sail with the tide
Drawn to the light, no surrender we cry
This endeavour my love
Is forever my love

We sail where the law's unbending
Our main brace strong and invincible
These veil-like claws descend, enshrouded

Sail the seven seas of wonder
Burn the ships, we smite and plunder
Trail the seasons out
Masters at arms again

Tidal born, the quest lies reeving
Ride the storms, the crest rise cleaving
Coast to coast we rout
Capture, becalm then end
Chapter and psalm again

Chase the horizon, we sail of the charts
Mercury rising, the whale and the shark
From the embers my love
We remember, my love

Masters of tides navigate from the heart
Hunt and collide, ride the waves by the stars
For this tempest my love
It is endless my love

No white-winged doves ascending
No parley, no flag of peace and love

You're tale is done, there's no way out

Sail the seven seas of wonder
Burn the ships, we smite and plunder
Trail the seasons out
Masters at arms again

Tidal born, the quest lies reeving
Ride the storms, the crest rise cleaving
Coast to coast we rout
Capture, becalm then end
