Lost

TENDER

Hold your soul, and hold your soul
Hold your soul, and hold your soul
Hold your soul, and hold your soul

Would you love me like you lost me to the wind?
Heard your bones your body thin found a hole to crawl in
And I hide from this mess
Put my troubled mind at rest
Sweep the dirt under the rug
My heavy shoulders never shook

(Hold your soul, and hold your soul
Hold your soul, and hold your soul
Hold your soul, and hold your soul)

Now show me the light
I am lost out in the darkness
Making peace now with the madness
Looking for your love
This what I'm scared of
Will you guide me home?

Under the weight of the world
My feet will blister through the cold
When I've seen the better days
I walk and walk on ever plain
And I tried my very best
I put my soul to the test
But you couldn't love me, cause I'm not your only
I don't want nobody else

(Hold your soul, and hold your soul
Hold your soul, and hold your soul
Hold your soul, and hold your soul)

Show me the light
I am lost out in the darkness
Making peace now with the madness
Looking for your love
This what I'm scared of
Will you guide me home?

Is the world out to get me
Or am I just lost?
When I look up you were the only
One I could trust
Now I'm lost without you
(Hold your soul, and hold your soul
Hold your soul, and hold your soul)
Now I'm lost without you
(Hold your soul, and hold your soul
Hold your soul, and hold your soul)

Now show me the light
I am lost out in the darkness
Making peace now with the madness
Looking for your love

This what I'm scared of
Will you guide me home?

Hold your soul, and hold your soul
Hold your soul, and hold your soul
Hold your soul, and hold your soul
Hold your soul, and hold your soul
Hold your soul, and hold your soul
Hold your soul, and hold your soul
