

Silence

TENDER

I'm tongue tied, nothing to say
I guess we'll do it your way
I'm speechless in a state of decay
Don't think I'll last another day
Baby, you were timeless, loving you was priceless
In every single way
Baby, your defiance's enough to keep me silenced

And I got a glimpse of the other side
Show me where your love resides
But you won't let me in, but you won't let me in
And I kissed your neck where the sweat, it dried
Your salty skin a perfect white
But you won't let me in, but you won't let me in

It's the sound from my heart breaking
You just keep on taking till there's nothing left
Well I have spent all of my time and all of my days
Tryna win your love or a reason to stay
With either fighting or living in silence

Glistening skin like you're soaking wet
No, I haven't stopped hoping yet
And my love runs deep inside your bones
You said, "I'm sorry," again, then you let me go

Got a glimpse of the other side
Show me where your love resides
But you won't let me in, but you won't let me in
And I kissed your neck where the sweat, it dried
Your salty skin a perfect white
But you won't let me in, but you won't let me in

It's the sound from my heart breaking
You just keep on taking till there's nothing left
Well I have spent all of my time and all of my days
Tryna win your love or a reason to stay
With either fighting or living in silence

It's the sound from my heart breaking
You just keep on taking till there's nothing left
Well I have spent all of my time and all of my days
Tryna win your love or a reason to stay
With either fighting or living in silence

I got a couple of cardiac arrests down here too, Pete
