

Wheels Down

Terri Clark

I never had a good sense of direction
North is south and east is west to me
When your head is in the clouds at a thousand miles an hour
It really messes with your visibility

Wheels down
Feels so good to finally have feet on the ground
Instead of round and round
This just in time arrival is the key to my survival
And it's lookin' like my heart is homeward bound
Wheels down, wheels down

Got a reason now for emptying a suitcase
Got a place I'd rather stay than leave behind
Lookin' forward to the landing so that I can see you standing
With a smile, and your arms open wide

Wheels down
Feels so good to finally have feet on the ground
Instead of round and round
This just in time arrival is the key to my survival
And it's lookin' like my heart is homeward bound
Wheels down, wheels down, wheels down

When your head is in the clouds at a thousand miles an hour
It really messes with your visibility
And now you're all I see

Wheels down
Feels so good to finally have feet on the ground
Instead of round and round
This just in time arrival is the key to my survival
And it's lookin' like my heart is homeward bound
Wheels down, wheels down, wheels down, oh wheels down
