

Beneath My Skin

Tesseract

Mindless eyes
Tightening veins beneath my skin
Forming shapes within my dreams
Jaded thought, it rips my throat
I live under my skin
I suppose you pray for me
I'm tainted, it's over
I'm tainted, it's over
The feelings that I have
For you, but keep them deep inside
In the heart
From deep within my skin
There's not that much time for you
This time I'm afraid to wander the world
I'm not sure, I don't think so
I will pretend
To live without my skin
I will pretend
To live without my skin
Take another piece of me
And it just might be enough to drag me under
Beneath the waves
Take another bite from this
White-lipped corpse
Take another bite from me
And wait your turn
It just might be enough to drag me under
Take another bite from this
White-lipped corpse
And it just might be enough to drag me under
As the dust begins to fall
I see an image of it all
It keeps me awake, keeps me awake
Separated from the earth
Lights flicker then are burned
It keeps me awake, keeps me awake
Lightning struck into a mirror image of the truth
It keeps me awake, oh, it keeps me awake
The stars begin to fall, a meditation to absolve
It keeps me awake, oh, it keeps me awake
I'm half crazy
Searching for the sight of you
Hoping that you'd pull me through
The hand of God you forced me to
I'm half crazy
Longing for the love of you
Begging on my knees to you
Weeping for the honest truth
I've been dreaming
Love is not an endless thing
Anxious to ignore our feelings
Love is not an endless thing
I've been dreaming
Love is not an endless thing
Anxious to ignore our feelings
Love is not an endless thing