Blood on the Radio

Thank You Scientist

Such a shame, it's wasted on the youth
Let's call the spade a spade
We pay for all the things, the things we do
Oh yeah, life is a game until it hits you in the face
Such a shame, it's wasted on the…

You know I would hate to say "told you so."
Forget your inhibitions, ready for the fall
The word on the wire, you're living in denial
And you're putting out the fire
And you're letting go of your desires
So kill it before it determines who you're gonna be today
Let all you think can't be give way to possibility
You'll see
You're staring down the barrel of the permanence of truth
You're giving in to every fear and I know what it's doing to you

King Procrastination waits his life away in hopes someone will show him the path that he should take Stay weary of the hopeless in hopes that you may find a better way to fly
Oh yeah, life is a game until it hits you in the face
Such a shame, it's wasted on the...

You know I would hate to say "told you so."
Forget your inhibitions, ready for the fall
The word on the wire, you're living in denial
And you're putting out the fire
And you're letting go of your desires
So kill it before it determines who you're gonna be today

You're giving in to every fear and I know what it's doing to you

They're clearing a path
Don't let them burn in your kitchen
Domino, now you know they're clearing a path and they're burning in your kit chen

Step at a time, know that you're mine
Not to borrow
So tell me why you're running away
Don't you worry
Step at a time, know that you'll find
There's no sorrow in places where your heart has a say
Do what you want and don't let them see you run
Blood on the radio
There's blood on the radio

So kill it before it determines who you're gonna be today
Let all you think can't be give way to possibility
You'll see
You're staring down the barrel of the permanence of truth
You're giving in to every fear and I know what it's doing
Know what it's doing
