We Felt Alive

There was nobody home so we ran upstairs And you tore off your clothes and I sat and I stared There's a million and one things that I'd like to try So we went to the top but we got much too high At least we felt alive

We rolled like pigs in the mud We left our worries behind Yes, yes

And we couldn't believe what we saw and we cared But they'll probably tell us that no one was there With the gold in your teeth and a gleam in your eye And the rays of the sun burn a hole through the sky At least we felt alive

We rolled like pigs in the mud We thumbed our noses at time We threw our clothes in the dirt We left our worries behind I saw it so well And I could tell we were alive

When the thoughts in your head get the upper hand And your mom and your dad never understand And you want them to know but you can't even try 'Cause they call you a thief while they're rollin' their eyes

We rolled like pigs in the mud We thumbed our noses at time We threw our clothes in the dirt We left our worries behind We tossed our cares in the weeds Our hearts beat right through our chests With everything that we need I have to say we were blessed And I saw it so well And I could tell we were alive
