

Mirrors

The Afterimage

I don't like being alone at night
This darkness reminds me of myself and I'm afraid of what my spirit brings
(Of what my spirit brings)

Staring away into the night sky, into the bright lights, illuminating
Dreaming over and over again

The mirror of the shining sky is calm, this time I see a million stars broken, fading
The radiance of midnight blacks out my mind
And I seek and answer I won't find, this time
But the vastness of the stars alone, breathes life into me and I fall apart alone

I'm staring away into the night sky, into the bright lights, illuminating
Dreaming over and over again
Hanging on to every moment, captivate with words unspoken
Staring away, dreaming over and over again

Isolation brings warmth
So peaceful, my one and only companion
While a city sleeps and my steps echo with heartache
I'm afraid of what my spirit brings
(Of what my spirit brings)

I'm staring away into the night sky, into the bright lights, illuminating
Dreaming over and over again
Hanging on to every moment, captivate with words unspoken
Staring away, dreaming over and over again
