Someday

Ready or not the years are blurring Running away the mind is turning Skip to the end to find the meaning Thoughts are fading, yet I wonder still Like it or not your eyes are open Playing around, the circles going Face of a child, your mind is old The clock ran down before I could begin

I wish we all could win I wish we all could smile I wish we all could make our mothers proud

Want it or not you just can't leave it Throw it away, I can't believe it Walking for days, I know you'll see that Times are changing, soon we'll be the same

Someday, someday, someday You'll come around Someday, someday, someday Your time will come There's nothing more that I can do I know we all can make it through I hope that someday you will see The Afters
