

Break Your Heart

The Age of Information

I will only break your heart

Better days have come and gone away please hear me now to never wait for what we've lost will not be found

And time uncovers that it is me pulling you under so I will let this go

I will only break your heart
I will only let you down
I've been tearing up my world, dear
I will burn it to the ground

I will only break your heart
What remains is that I love you more than I know how but what it takes I never had to give

And time uncovers
that it was me pulling you under
so I will let this go

I will only break your heart
I will only let you down
I've been tearing up my world, dear
I will burn it to the ground

And in the end
white bleeds to red you grab your coat and go what's left is done what's said is gone and you will never know

I will only break your heart (and in the end)
I will only let you down (white bleeds to red) I've been tearing up world here (you grab your coat)
I will burn it to the ground (and go)

I will only break your heart (what's left is done)
I will only let you down (what's said is gone) see these walls are caving in, love (and you will) you've got to find your own way out (never know)

And in the end
white bleeds to red