Back Street Pick Up

The Angels

Welcome back, good to see you again heart attack, honey where you been You went away, y' never told me where baby what can I say, never thought I'd care Queen of the night you got a heart of stone now that you're back I can't leave you alone Back street pick up Back street pick up honey where have you been good to see you again Saw your face, in a magazine silk and lace, honey you're obscene Queen of the night you got a heart of stone now that you're back I can't leave you alone Back street pick up Back street pick up honey where have you been good to see you again You hooked me in, then you raised the price some call it sin, I call it paradise