

Looking Glass

The Association

Looking Glass

(Jules Alexander and Christie Twice, 1966)

You say that you're gonna go

I suppose you know what's best for you

So go, run with the wind

Taste the sun, feel the splendor of the world

I know you'll leave, but come home to me

At your journey's end I'll be here

I'll be near anytime you need me

Need me, I'll be here

So go, play in jeweled cities

Play with pretties, tie ribbons in your hair

And if you find the looking glass

Please stay and ask the other side

Who's that standing there, who's that standing there

What's her name

Does she still wear morning in her hair

And smile the same

The same... ahhhh-ahhhh-ah-ah-ahhhh

Who's that standing there, who's that standing there

What's her name

Does she still wear morning in her hair

And smile the same

The same... ahhhh-ahhhh-ah-ah-ahhhh
