

The Machine

The Association

In order to combat the sudden influx of machines into our society

I would like to show you a machine of rare and unusual construction

It's called an Association machine

Composed of many integral parts

The first being a semi-reclined percussive invertebrator, or drummer

The smallest single component of the machine

Is the new transistorized, model, primal-digit-flexing calculator, or lead guitar

In the center of the machine we see a flexible rhythm generator, known as rhythm guitar

Immediately to his left we see a manifold bifurcated facilitator

Next is a consistent low-range modulator

Last, but not least, the largest single component in captivity
An elongated, fluting vocalizator

This machine, when programmed correctly

Emits a variety of sounds and rhythmic patterns

Ladies and gentlemen, The Association
