

Jack Daniels

The Automatic

What happened to us we used to be so confident
That thing's would be okay
I never realized that something was wrong
Till a part of me had started to decay

Feel like a rocket without fuel
I fail to breathe, escape velocity
Come crashing down, sucked in by my whole world
A fucking tragedy

Tonight, it's time to leave this town
And get out of here
It's too late to try and start again
So get out of here

What happened to you
You never replied to my letter
I don't know if you're alive or dead
Never forget those feelings
It's like I am feeling it all again

You never really forget
You never really forget
You never really forget
You never really forget

...

Tonight, it's time to leave this town
And get out of here
It's too late to try and start again
So get out of here

Tonight, it's time to leave this town
And get out of here
It's too late to try and start again
So get out of here