

Metropolis

The Belle Brigade

Here we are
In Metropolis
Where the people are glamorous
Everyone knows everything

They can read your mind
See what you did last night
And it's dangerous
Can't reveal too much
Can't conceal too much
You're just walking on that line

And you can't go outside
Without being afraid
Thinking how would you survive
In the wild or in a war?

And you're keeping score
Believing more and more
Life is just a game
Well, I can't play today
I think I'll waste away
Spending all my time indoors

And everything I know
I don't know it anymore
And I been wondering lately
Why I was ever born
What am I living for?

But here I am
I've complained again
And it probably hurts my friends
To hear me say that I'm alone

Well, I let them go
When I am feeling low
Yes, I'm dangerous
Every time I get like this
Every time I lose control
Feel like I don't care no more
But then again, that's just today
Oh, tomorrow I'll be okay
