

I don't need the old thermometer
To tell me, I know something here is up
Ice upon the steps up to the door
But there's no footsteps in the snow here anymore

I only saw the differences, I didn't see the change
I thought that you would soon be back and things would be the same
I never saw the tide come in, I only saw the waves
I thought that you would soon be back and things would be the same

Wonder why you left without a key
I think it might be something to do with me
Thought I felt your presence but it was
Only the silence rolling in just like a fog

I only saw the differences, I didn't see the change
I thought that you would soon be back and things would be the same
I never saw the tide come in, I only saw the waves
I thought that you would soon be back and things would be the same

You had me goin' for a minute there
You had me goin' for a minute there
You had me goin' for a minute there
You had me goin' for a minute there
You had me goin' for a minute there
You had me goin' for a minute there
You had me goin' for a minute there
You had me goin' for a minute there
You had me goin' for a minute there
You had me goin' for a minute there
You had me goin' for a minute there
You had me goin' for a minute there
