Miscarriage

The Black Dahlia Murder

The language of the lie
Barbed and callous tongues shall lick
Behind the thinnest doors
A web of falsehood so unfolds

Humility
Pride dissected, maliciously
A mockery
Bonds dissolve in endless mimicry

Cruelly illuminated Subject of shallow spectacle Inherent weaknesses revealed Contact withers to a lull

Once perfect pictures
Now stained with fingerprints
Tragedy fucks jealously
The human heartstrings bend and break

Vultures with human eyes Can you feel them circling? Prey on tender moments The failures of purest dream

Our selfish means
Are the means to this fucking end
A knife for every spine
Of every blood

Nails scratching into the flesh Until the fibers are broken Something's got to give

The bottoms of bottles
No longer ease the pain
And the bathroom mirror
Reflects the face of autonomy

Man must invert
Internalize the pain
Sequence replays in the mind
The human heartstrings bend and break

Vultures with human eyes Can you feel them circling? Prey on tender moments The failures of purest dream

Our selfish means
Are the means to this fucking end
Alright, knife for every spine
Of every man, of every man

Lot of the ugly answers Lie somewhere in between Intrinsic disregard The burden of weakness

They're sharpening
The knives are always sharpening
A life now stained with fingerprints
Something's got to give