Teenage Runaway

The Blue Van

Oh, away she blows Through the door and down the street she goe s The levee won't hold A young lost soul She'll break away the shackles of the old

Daddy's girl With all your mammas curls Sneaking away As mornin g turns to day Teenage runaway

So the story goes Another day another bird has flown No-more wi ll he preach His worn out speech She's going where his bible be lt won't reach

Daddy's girl Pawned her mothers pearls Stealing away As morning turns to day Teenage runaway

Oh, Why did she leave me, Lord? Oh, Where did my words fall sho rt?
