

Hiding

The Brook & The Bluff

I've been letting time run through my hands
I'm frozen there
Feel the seconds slipping like the sand
At least I pretend that now -
We've been spinning all around
Things we should voice but I just let the silence drown it out

I should think of something like some plans
I'm tired of loneliness
Drove around to try to find something worth doing
Crashed into a fence
They said my wheels went spinning out
On someone's shoelace
With the music screaming loud

And when you think you've got it figured out
And all the lights have gone out in the whole damn house
Wondering just who I should call
And all the power's gone out in the whole damn block
I don't know when I feel better
Being alone or being together

They said my wheels went spinning out
Things we should voice but I just let the silence...

And when you think you've got it figured out
And all the lights have gone out in the whole damn house
Wondering just who I should call
And all the power's gone out in the whole damn block
I don't know when I feel better
Being alone or being together

I don't know when I feel better
Being alone
Being alone or being together
