Cross The Line

The Browning

I am not a blind man
Always looking for a sign
I can see this world
Through my own eyes
I need to cross the line
I will cross the line

Taking a step into the darkness
Past the point of no return
Taking a step into the light
Past the point of no return
What will I see, what will I learn?

I have no fate, I have no destiny
I only have the future that I made for me
I have no luck, I have no fears
I know it will pay off after all these years
I have no fate, I have no destiny
I only have the future that I made for me

You are not a blind man
Never let yourself lose sight
Now is the time to open up your eyes
You need to cross the line

Don't hold back what you feel inside
Leave your doubts behind
Don't be afraid to live your life
Live your life