Fearplex

The Browning

Open up the sky

If the sky were to open
There would be no law
There would be no more tragedies
There would only be me and my memories
You can't tell me to fear him
I never feared death to begin with

I will never fear death
I will never fear death

If you are the way then where is the truth?
If you are the way then where is the light?

Open up the sky
To rain down on me
I was born with tragedy in my blood

I'll send the demons back to the underground
To a place where only I can see them
Where it's only me and my memories

You can't tell me to fear him
I never feared death to begin with

Tragedy is in my blood
I will never fear death
I will never fear death
