

Second Pair Of Eyes

The Cats

suddenly I knew that you were more than just a friend more than plain beginning and much more than fancy end my life was now d ependent on your ways more than just an incidental craze you took my senses from my grasp and tossed them to the stars y ou helped me to escape my mind by bending mental bars you made my life a form of servitude you showed me happiness can be pers ued

you to me are like a second pair of eyes keeping all my visions on the move you're the one who taught me how to realize realiz e that being is the truth when you showed me I could live a real life bring me now I know what eyes are for, they are there to help me see a real life pe rson here in my own right now I know inside me there's insight
