Love Is

The Chameleons

Dealing with confusion

You always fill my head with useless information

And it's contributing to ,my frustration

If i shout or if i scream it's just a reflex reaction

And it's always aimed at you

You think my efforts are pointlesss
And handled in a way that is totally thoughtless
Defending all you love
But the enemys faceless
It's a cancer and the cure, must always elude us
As it eats it's way through you

But this feelings rebounding of you Oh, is this the best we can do? This feelings rebounding of you

Dealing with confusion

You always fill my head with useless information

And it's contributing to ,my frustration

If i shout or if i scream it's just a reflex reaction

And it's always aimed at you

But this feelings rebounding of you But this feelings rebounding of you Oh, is this the best we can do? This feelings rebounding of you