

The Forest

The Choir

More is hidden than revealed Sometimes the path to understanding is concealed It hurts to be alive, your pain is real Go on laugh until you cry, it's good to feel

The sun will shine The sun will shine on you The sun will shine
The sun will shine on you

I believe the sun will shine on you and me, my friend I have learned trust the turning of the seasons Even now the sun is breaking through the clouds again But I still don't know the causes or the reasons

Take it one step at a time We cannot see beyond the woods but that's all right I hear voices in shadows of the night Keep on following the river to the light

The sun will shine The sun will shine on you The sun will shine
The sun will shine on you

I believe the sun will shine on you and me, my friend I have learned trust the turning of the seasons Even now the sun is breaking through the clouds again But I still don't know the causes or the reasons And I still can't see the forest for the trees

Don't be afraid, don't hide in the dark Climb the mountain, hear the meadowlark Wait for the sun

I believe the sun will shine on you and me, my friend I have learned trust the turning of the seasons Even now the sun is breaking through the clouds again But I still don't know the causes or the reasons