

Days of Endless Time

The Common Linnets

There's a song in all this rain, wonder if the sky feels pain
I can't move, I can't sing, guess this silence tells me everyth ing
I could fly away to a distant place but I would not forget your face
I let the rain and the pain, and I let myself be lonely

There's a song in the wind blowing
There's a song in the trees swaying
Still I just sit here watching, afraid to say the wrong things
A few simple words change everything
Could turn everything around
Leave trees swaying and wind blowing
Just like you leave me lonely

It is just the strangest thing, Sundays bring me down
A lonely day of sun, now that you're gone
Just a single rose, alone but beautiful
But I had your love and you had mine
And we had our days of endless time

In this hollow of this heart, in the empty of this house
There's a silent song waiting for you to bring back sound
You where there while the rain fell, put words into this song
In the hollow of my heart, the empty of this house as I linger on

It is just the strangest thing, Sundays bring me down
A lonely day of sun, now that you're gone
Just a single rose, alone but beautiful
But I had your love and you had mine
And we had our days of endless time

It is just the strangest thing, Sundays bring me down
A lonely day of sun, now that you're gone
Just a single rose, alone but beautiful
But I had your love and you had mine
And we had our days of endless time
