

I Hope She Knows

The Coronas

The owner of the lonely hearts
A toast to being apart
I never sought to really try too much
I've got a good mind to start
Well I [?] fail
You knew what this entails
To gave it a year but it still ended in tears
It's just too little, not too late

But if he decides to let her down
Maybe I could ask her out
I hope she knows
I hope she knows
I hope she knows the truth

So try not to let it show
You made it this far alone
You dreamt too big, you'll have to live with it
Who in their right mind could've known?

But if he decides to let her down
Maybe I could ask her out
I hope she knows
I hope she knows
I hope she knows the truth

And though you find it hard to trust yourself
Well you never really thought about anyone else
Now please you try
It's worthwhile

Just try, it might be nice
Just want friends in this fight
Just try, it might be nice
Just want friends in this fight

But if he decides to let her down
Maybe I could ask her out
I hope she knows
I hope she knows
I hope she knows the truth

And as you tell yourself that it's meant to be
You're never really sure just what to believe yeah
At least you tried
It's worthwhile
