

Endsong

The Cure

Yeah, I'm outside in the dark
Staring at the blood-red moon
Remembering the hopes and the dreams I had
And all I had to do

And wondering what became of that boy
And the world he called his own
I'm outside in the dark
Wondering how I got so old

It's all gone, it's all gone
Nothing left of all I loved
All feels lost
It's all gone, it's all gone, it's all gone
No hopes, no dreams, no more
No
I don't belong
I don't belong here

It's all gone, it's all gone
I will lose myself in time
It won't be long
It's all gone, it's all gone, it's all gone

Left alone with nothing
Nothing
Nothing
Nothing
