

Step Into The Light

The Cure

All of your faith in simple shadows from my hope for something more

[?] any reason to be sure

You believe, there's nothing more to add

You believe, it's as simple as that

I don't care about the aliens, ghosts, and fairies, all the voices in your head

It's when your "I believe it's true, I know", I start to get upset

Because you don't know, you don't know, you don't know
You just want it all true

No, you don't know, you don't know, you don't know

You just have to say you do

You can't really know, you can only believe with a confidence borne of deceit

The only angels you should hear are reason, honesty, equality and love

The only devils you should fear are hatred, ignorance, greed and a world full of people scared dumb

You believe, it's as simple as that

You believe, there's nothing more to add

I don't care about your sinners, saints, and saviours, [?] mysterious ways

It's when your "I believe it's true, I know!", I start to feel dismayed

Because you don't know, you don't know, you don't know

You just want it all true

No you don't know, you don't know, you don't know

You just have to say you do

You can't really know, you can only believe

It really is insane, all this crazy desperate need

For unknowable magic, strange supernatural power

You're flying through space at a million miles an hour

For 4 billion years, the sun keeps coming up

It's all too wonderful for words but for you it's not enough

You should step out of the shadows yeah and step into the light
