

Halo

The Dark Element

You think you're the jewel of creation
You think that this world is for you
The sun it should shine 'cause you say so
The stream it should bend to your will

Your hopes are the hopes of the foolish
Your dreams are the dreams of the past
The history teaches you nothing
And that you have, it won't last

Where is your halo
Where is your dignity
Tell me how low can you go
No one can scrape off
The rust from your crown
Where is your halo now?

Your children will hate you forever
Your graces they faded so fast
You've fallen so far from what was your throne
Despised now wherever you go

I can't see your halo
Where is your dignity
Tell me how low can you go
Halo has faded and vanity shows
Where is your crown, where is your

Halo where is your dignity
Tell me how low can you go
Halo has faded and vanity showy
Where is your crown, where is your

Halo where is your dignity
Tell me how low can you go
Halo has faded and vanity showy
Where is your crown, where is your