

Here's To You

The Dark Element

Hi, if you're reading this then I'm not fine
I guess I'm writing just to clear mind
And I would never want to be the spectre at your feast

Last night while I was lying in the gutter wondering why
And all the people were just passing me by
You were the only thing that kept me holding on

So here's to you
For being right from the start
So here's to you
I hope you find in your heart

The strength to forget who I was
And in the end I hope you won't hate me
I'll leave you with this, I will miss you everyday
But I won't write you again

I, I always thought that I was larger than life
I always thought that I would never say die
But I think you know for me it never rains but pours

And now that all is gone I finally get the joke
The irony of being the worst of all
And I can tell it hurts to see the joke's on me

So here's to you
For being right from the start
So here's to you
I hope you find in your heart

The strength to forget who I was
And in the end I hope you won't hate me
I'll leave you with this, I will miss you everyday
But I won't write you again

Long gone are now
All the days of wine and roses
"Once upon a time"'s a cliché
I don't wanna use right now

Not a prince for the princess
Not a man for the maiden
Not a story for the ages
I am but the boring truth

So here's to you
For being right from the start
So here's to you
I hope you find in your heart

So here's to you
For being right from the start
So here's to you
I hope you find in your heart

The strength to forget who I was

And in the end I hope you won't hate me
I'll leave you with this, I will miss you everyday
But I won't write you again

So here's to you
So here's to you
So here's to you