

When It All Comes Down

The Dark Element

You look so pale, you look so frail
While shadows they dance on your ashen skin
You were so strong, so full of life
Now something is eating you from inside

I fear the worst, hope for the best
Deny it while hearts are put to the test
Unwelcome guest inside your chest
Will claim you and then it is time to rest

Let me ease your pain when the bells they chime
Walk with you for this one last time
I was there when you wore your crown
I'm still here when it all comes down

I hold on tight, I pray to god
Don't leave me for all is not said and done
Can't ease your pain, can't take your place
For time is the truth we all face alone

Let me ease your pain when the bells they chime
Walk with you for this one last time
I was there when you wore your crown
I'm still here when it all comes down

Let me ease your pain when the bells they chime
Walk with you for this one last time
I was there when you wore your crown
I'm still here when it all comes down
