The dB's

Judy, Judy

I didn't know what I was looking for till I lost you

I started thinking it was terminal

My lonely life

No one in sight, it got interminable

Day after night

Then you came along and changed it all

And then it all seemed important, it was all worthwhile

I couldn't keep my fingers from the phone to dial

Judy, Judy

I didn't know what I was looking for till I lost you

I took advantage of security

You gave to me

I left you nothing when I had you there

Waiting for me

And now you're gone and it's the same old sight

And now I know what I did to you was less than fair

And once hearts are broken they can't be repaired

Judy, Judy

I didn't know what I was looking for till I lost you

Now all I ever do here anymore

Is sit by the phone and listen for the door

And hope it's you and we can be like we were before

But I blew it and I knew it and I know it still you'll always be my

Judy, Judy

I didn't know what I was looking for till I lost you

Judy, Judy

I didn't know what I was looking for

I didn't know what I was fighting for

I didn't know what I was dying for

Till I lost you

Judy
