

An Escape

The Dear Hunter

Oh hope where have you gone
And will you ever come back to me completely
All the wholes that I've left from
Forcing everyone around my heart to leave me

I could tell
There was nothing left for us
When you turned, oh, you turned your back
But in the arms of another
You were crying under the covers
For a way to escape, to escape

Oh God, where have I gone
And will I ever get the ones I tell to believe me
All the things I have done
To keep those around from learning to read me

I could tell
There was nothing left for us
When you turned, oh, you turned your back
But in the arms of another
You were crying under the covers
For a way to escape, to escape

So I guess I'm pressing on without you
I hope it goes the way you want to
But nothing ever seems like it does
And I don't believe a single word I say
(Don't believe a single word I say)

I could tell
There was nothing left for us
When you turned, oh, you turned your back
But in the arms of another
You were crying under the covers
For a way to escape, to escape