Satisfaction

The Dear Hunter

A kiss from your lips onto my redden cheek Is welcomed like a train wreck I bow my head and bring it to my knees instead of grazing How about another time How about another time

Cant you just see that you can never be satisfied Until you try to satisfy

The feeling of bliss is welcomed when im weak Yet bliss is bitter sweet Until you can find someone who understands The weakness that you feel How about another time How about another time

Cant you just see that you can never be satisfied Until you try to satisfy Cause you can never be satisfied Until you try to satisfy
