

Noise

The Devil Wears Prada

What if I missed a sign again?
So often too insecure
Thrown off by the noise again
Like a vision now a blur

When will I know
That the time is right for the hour to strike
It's all wrong, moving closer to a dying sound
Take another try walking on air
Got me going till I meet the edge

What if I missed a sign again?
So often too insecure
Thrown off by the noise again
Like a vision now a blur
Might never even know what could have been
Never know what I deserve
What if I missed a sign again? Sign again?

I'm existing as a ghost
But I'm still afloat, dizzy drifting from left to right
I'm waiting for a night that never comes
But now I'm caught staring at the sun
Staring at the sun, waiting for the burn

What if I missed a sign again?
So often too insecure
Thrown off by the noise again
Like a vision now a blur
Might never even know what could have been
Never know what I deserve
What if I missed a sign again? Sign again?

I can't sleep 'cause the sky is falling
Rest in peace, the noise is calling
I can't sleep 'cause the sky is falling
Rest in peace, the noise is calling
I can't sleep 'cause the sky is falling
Rest in peace, the noise is calling

What if I missed a sign again?
So often too insecure
Thrown off by the noise again
Like a vision now a blur
Might never even know what could have been
Never know what I deserve
What if I missed a sign again? Sign again?

I can't sleep 'cause the sky is falling
Rest in peace, the noise is calling